

Second Call for Contributions

The Program Committee of the 30th IFAMA World Conference, Rotterdam, the Netherlands invites you to submit a full paper, a proposal for an organized session, proposals for teaching cases and applications for the student case competition.

The theme of the conference is “Food for the Future” and to this end, we suggest a number of thematic fields as a guideline to address contemporary challenges in the (triple helix) interplay between academia, government, industry and civil society. We would like to encourage contributors to address one of these thematic fields (see ifama2020.org/themes/).

The conference will host multiple stakeholders of the Global food system and will include academic, business as well as combined sessions. Moreover, we expect around 30 international student teams to compete in the renown IFAMA student case competition.

Please find below guidelines for the submission of full papers and of organized session (for more information on teaching cases and student case competition applications, see www.IFAMA2020.org)
